A publication by the Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies (MIGS)

Editorial

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the latest issue of MIGS news! In this issue you will find the latest activities of our team including project updates, new projects, lobbying and advocacy activities, as well as new faces among our team.

MIGS is involved in a number of new projects, and has recently received funding from the European Science Foundation to organise an ESF Exploratory Workshop under the Scientific Coordination of Professor Nira Yuval Davis, aiming to bring together key feminist activists from across the globe to discuss the challenges faces by the women's movement and ways to address them.

In our Current Projects section, you will find updates on projects launched in the previous year with exciting new developments in research, training, capacity building, and exchanges of good practice on a European level. MIGS has also continued its lobbying activities and has circulated press releases on a number of issues affecting women.

This summer, MIGS also introduced its new internship programme and received a high number of applications from potential participants. After careful consideration of all candidates, MIGS has selected two promising new interns who will have the opportunity to travel to Cyprus and learn how MIGS works on a day to day basis as well as have the opportunity to work alongside our team on our projects and other activities.

Finally, we would also like to take this opportunity to announce that our Director, Dr. Myria Vassiliadou, has recently been appointed the new Secretary General of the European Women's Lobby [EWL] as of 1st October 2007. The MIGS team congratulates her warmly on this wonderful achievement and, although Myria will no longer continue as Director of MIGS, she will continue to be very much a part of the Institute as a member of the Board. MIGS hopes to announce a new Director of the Institute soon.

Enjoy reading,

New Projects

Intercultural Dialogue on Violence against Women

The Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies is coordinating a new project entitled "Intercultural Dialogue on Violence against Women", funded by the Anna Lindh Euro-Mediterranean Foundation for the Dialogue between Cultures.

The overall objective of the project is to enhance the active participation of women in intercultural dialogue about violence against women and the diffusion of information about overcoming discrimination and violence against women in the Euro-Mediterranean region. Specifically, the proposed project will bring together 25 women from diverse backgrounds in five countries in the Euro-Med region to discuss and identify areas of common concern, exchange experiences, and highlight best practices in relation to violence against women.

The project will begin with an innovative photographic competition open to young women from Cyprus, Egypt, Greece, Morocco and Spain under the theme "Violence against Women in the Mediterranean". The photo competition seeks images that make a creative and powerful statement on the issue of Violence against Women in the Mediterranean region.

ESF Exploratory Workshop on Feminisms and Activism

The European Science Foundation and MIGS will be conducting an Exploratory Workshop on the subject of "Feminisms and Activism: Transversal Politics in Contemporary Europe and across the Globe".

The workshop will take place on from the 12th -16th of September 2007 in Nicosia, Cyprus and will be convened by Susana Pavlou (CY) and Nira Yuval-Davis (UK).

The main aim of the workshop is to bring together a group of key feminists who live across various countries of Europe (but come from diverse locations across the globe) and who have been involved in European and global feminist initiatives networks, in order to systematically address the tensions and uncertainties faced by the women's movement both on the European level and the global level. Note: This workshop will not be open to the public.

Gender Inequality in Family Life in Cyprus

The Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies is coordinating a new project entitled "Gender Inequality in Family Life in Cyprus" funded under the Employment, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities of the European Commission and the Ministry of Justice and Public Order in Cyprus for the 2007 European Year of Equal Opportunities for all.

The main aim of the project is to challenge stereotypes, prejudice, and the unequal power distribution with regard to gender within family life in Cyprus through the production of a documentary film.

Training seminars on gender awareness will also be included in the activities with aim to raise awareness among the producers and director on the issue of gender and gender and the media in particular. To do so the trainer will be using the Gender and Media Handbook [www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?p=22] published by MIGS.

APROPOS - Multisectoral and Multidisciplinary Professional Specialization Programme and Network for Violence Prevention

MIGS is partner in the new project "APROPOS - Multisectoral and Multidisciplinary Professional Specialization Programme and Network for Violence Prevention" funded by the DAPHNE II programme of the European Commission and co-financed by Finland's Ministry of Social Affairs and Health. The project is coordinated by Women's and Gender Studies, University of Oulu, Women's studies, University of Oulu.

The project aims to construct a regional, national and international network of professionals working and dealing with questions of violence. The main result of the project will be a multi-sectoral and multidisciplinary specialization programme for professional education and in-service training on violence and violence prevention.

Current Projects Update

Date Rape among Young Women and the Development of Good Practices for Support and Prevention

MIGS is coordinating a transnational project entitled "Date Rape Cases Among Young Women and the Development of Good Practices for Support and Prevention", funded by the Daphne II Programme of the European Commission.

The project began in September 2007. It aims to measure the prevalence and incidence of date rape among female college students in Cyprus, Greece, Latvia, Lithuania, and Malta, and assess the attitudes, behaviours and level of awareness among beneficiaries and target groups.

The first project information leaflet is now available in five languages. View the Project leaflet [http://www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?attachment_id=194]

In addition, the quantitative and qualitative research taking place in the five partner countries is in its final stages and the country reports, which will include the research findings as well as policy recommendations, will be available at the end of September.

For more detailed information regarding this project, please visit our website at: <http://www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?p=18>

Integration of Female Migrant Domestic Workers: Strategies for Employment and Civic Participation

Since September 2006, MIGS has coordinated this transnational project which is funded under the INTI Preparatory Actions 2005, Integration for Third- country Nationals of the European Commission.

Among its activities, the project involves a mapping of existing integration services and policies, best practices and strategies adopted in all partner countries in relation to female migrant domestic workers, particularly in the areas of employment and civic participation.

The project also involves the organization of study visits in all partner countries, three of which have already concluded successfully, in Germany, Greece and in Cyprus.

For more detailed information regarding this project, please visit our website at: <http://www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?p=17>

Young Women: Fit for Politics!

Following the success of the pilot workshop, the two-day national training "Young Women: Fit for Politics!" took place on 24-25th of March, 2007 in Nicosia. The two trainers from MIGS, Susana Pavlou, Program Coordinator, and Karolina Vinakurava, Research Associate, organized and facilitated this empowering event.

The dynamic team consisted of ten young women from diverse backgrounds, all united by one common goal, which is to become active European citizens and future leaders in public and political life. In addition to the new-comers, a couple of old members who participated in the pilot in July 2006 now expressed great interest to continue being a part of this exciting initiative and all were welcomed.

The final international workshop will bring together participants from Austria, Cyprus, and Turkey and will take place on 30 June – 1 July 2007 in Vienna.

DID YOU KNOW THAT...?

MIGS has launched an online directory of institutions and organisations in the Mediterranean that do gender related work. Over one-hundred institutions from around the world are featured, including universities/colleges, research institutions, media organisations and NGOs. To view the directory or register your organisation please visit www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?page_id=70

Role of Women in Economic Life

The Role of Women in Economic Life project aims at enhancing the role and involvement of Mediterranean public governmental and non-governmental institutions to facilitate and expand opportunities for women's economic participation. The 3 year project (January 2006 – January 2009) covering 10 countries in the MEDA region, is funded by the European Commission and managed by the British Council in partnership with MIGS.

The second partners' meeting took place from 5-8 March 2007 in Casablanca, Morocco. The meeting came at a stage where the RWEL programme has been in action for almost a year and half and can be considered the first technical meeting based on the outcomes of the first meeting that took place in Cairo in June 2006, where a common understanding of the aim and objectives of the EOWEL programme was established.

The meeting provided a regional forum for sharing, learning and linking the work of the seven EOWEL projects and for building on strengthening cross-cutting themes, communication and visibility, review and analysis, documentation and dissemination of lessons learned.

The project website is now fully functional with many new features including a Gender Equality Database, announcements on relevant events, training workshops, and conferences, as well as four new thematic areas, including Gender and Media, Micro Enterprise Development, Capacity Development, and Marketing and Trade, where relevant tools, information, reports, materials, manuals, useful links, and related resources will be available. Please visit www.roleofwomenineconomiclife.net.

The project has also produced three quarterly newsletters, edited by MIGS, which are available on our website at <http://www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?p=15>.

ELANI : Open Doors, Equal Initiative

MIGS has recently been involved as a partner, in an Equal community initiative programme, co-funded by the European Social Fund, entitled ELANI: Open Doors. This project's overall objective aimed to improve the participation of women in economic life by encouraging businesses to adopt family friendly policies and to thereby promote the reconciliation of professional and family life.

As partner, MIGS is the coordinator for Action 4 "Mapping of the Social Gender Map of Cyprus". The findings report was finalized in February 2007 and was presented by the Main Researcher, Chrystalla Ellina at the International Conference on the "Reconciliation of Family and Professional Life" which was held in Nicosia – Cyprus on the 27th and the 28th of April 2007.

MIGS has also been an active participant in other Actions of the project including Action 5 "New models – New culture and labour environments" and Action 7 "New forms of partnership to facilitate the employment of women" both as trainers and trainees.

CIVICUS: Exploring the Gender Gap in Civil Society

MIGS is participating as a partner in a bi-communal project coordinated by MC-Med in cooperation with Intercollege entitled 4th International Symposium: The State of Civil Society: Where should we go from here?, funded by UNDP – Action for Cooperation and Trust.

Within the framework of this MIGS conducted a study with a sample of Civil Society Organisations (CSOs) in the south to directly assess the extent to which women participate in CSOs, quantifying if and where there is a gender gap, and identifying the barriers and constraints potentially excluding women from participation. The study was completed in January 2007 and the main findings were presented by our main researcher, Stalo Lesta, at the Gender Gap workshop that took place during the 4th International Symposium on the 4th May 2007.

Daphne II: Secondary Educational Schools and Education in Values

MIGS is a partner to a project coordinated by the University of Zaragoza and funded by the European Commission – Daphne Programme entitled “Secondary Education Schools and Education in values: Proposals for gender violence prevention”.

The main aim of the project is to contribute to gender violence prevention in secondary schools, given that it is one of the stages in which many young people begin their first relationships and begin to shape certain values in relation to the models of attraction.

Within the framework of this project, MIGS has completed a state of the art report on the current situation of violence against women in Cyprus. The project is currently undergoing its second phase whereby all three partner countries [Cyprus, Malta and Spain] conduct qualitative research in five secondary schools in Cyprus with the aim of assessing the Models of Attraction of Cypriot teenagers and also for discovering the perceptions concerning gender relations and gender roles which currently exist among the younger generation of Cyprus. All the reports will be available upon completion of the project.

MIGS Events & Activities

Book Presentation by Maria Kyriakidou

MIGS organized a book presentation by Dr Maria Kyriakidou entitled “Politicizing the Soul: Gendered Perspectives to Local Democracy”.

The book reminds us of the need for a reconnection between feminism and politics not only on a theoretical level but also on an empirical level. The book adopts a feminist angle through which it examines the cases of elected women council members in the city of Thessalonica during the city elections of 2002.

Guest of honour was Mrs Anna Marangou, Archeologist, Art Historian and former candidate for Nicosia Mayor. The presentation took place at Intercollege on Monday, 5th of February at 6:30pm.

Dr. Maria Kyriakidou is an Assistant Professor of History and Politics at the Division of Humanities and Social Sciences, American College of Thessaloniki, Greece. She is also adjunct instructor of Greek history at the Hellenic Open University as well as adjunct instructor of Gender and Politics at the Department of Political Science, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, Greece.

Seminar on the Implementation of 2 National Action Plans

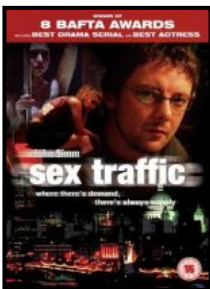

Mr. Lazaros Savvides, Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Interior and Josie Christodoulou of MIGS

On the 5th March 2007, within the framework of International Women's Day, the Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies organised a seminar entitled "The Implementation of the National Action Plan on Trafficking in Human Beings and Sexual Exploitation of Young Persons and the National Report on Strategies for Social Protection and Social Inclusion" funded by the National Machinery for Women's Rights.

The aim of the seminar was to provide a forum for the discussion and analysis of the two National Action Plans, the presentation of the current position and views of the various governmental departments and non-governmental organizations concerned, and subsequently raising awareness among policy makers and civil society actors.

The seminar was conducted in the form of constructive dialogue between individuals and organizations that play an important role in the empowerment of civil society and in promoting dialogue between the state and NGOs, with the aim to combat and eliminate gender discrimination. For a full seminar report please visit our website at: <http://www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?p=231>

Film Screening: Sex Traffic

MIGS organized a screening of the award winning film Sex Traffic on the 8th of May at the Intercollege UNESCO Amphitheatre.

Sex Traffic, winner of eight BAFTA Awards, focuses on the global business trafficking young women into forced prostitution in European and American cities. Elena and Vara, two sisters from Europe's poorest country Moldova, leave their village together with Vara's fiancé Alex to start a new and better life in London. Some days later, they realize the bitter reality: they were sold to traffickers who force the young women to work as prostitutes in several states in the Balkans.

Film Festival: "Fear and passion: aspects of human sexuality in cinema"

The Friends of the Cinema Society, in collaboration with the Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies (MIGS) and other organisations, organized the screenings of a film season entitled "Fear and passion: aspects of human sexuality in cinema" on the 8th -31st of May 2007. All screenings were held at the Cine Studio, Intercollege.

Miranda Christou, Board Member of MIGS gave an introductory talk to the screening of Brokeback Mountain on the 20th and 29th May 2007. To view the introductory talk please visit: http://www.medinstgenderstudies.org/wp/?attachment_id=269

"While the topic of human sexuality is one that concerns us all, both at the personal and social level, it is not often that it becomes the object of public debate. This is precisely what led us to think that a film season on the subject could prove both interesting and useful. After all, the screening of a film is at once a personal and collective activity.

Roundtable Discussion on the Role of Women in Civil Society

On the invitation of the Counselor for Public Affairs of the United States Embassy in Cyprus, Susana Pavlou, Programme Coordinator at MIGS attended a round table discussion on the Role of Women in Civil Society with Professor Kathleen McCarthy, Centre for Philanthropy and Civil Society, The Graduate Centre of the City University of New York.

The round table discussion took place on the 24th May at the Hilton Park Hotel in Nicosia and was attended by representatives of Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot women’s organizations as well as the Secretary General of the Cyprus National Machinery for Women’s Rights, Ms. Maro Varnavidou, and the Cyprus Law Commissioner, Ms. Leda Koursoumba.

Following a presentation of the development of women’s philanthropy in the United States in the last century, a lively discussion followed on women’s activism and the women’s movement in Cyprus and barriers towards women’s greater participation.

4th International Symposium – Panel on Gender Gap

Susana Pavlou, Programme Coordinator, represented MIGS at the “4th International Symposium: The State of Civil Society: Where should we go from here?” as Chair of the Panel on the ‘Gender Gap’.

Speakers at the panel included Maria Hadjipavlou, Fatma Azgin, and Itir Bagdadi who spoke on various aspects of gender equality and women’s activism.

UNDP International Civil Society Fair: Open Voices- Active Citizens

On behalf of MIGS, Rania Tollefson actively participated in the event “International Civil Society Fair: Open Voices- Active Citizens” organized by UNDP-ACT.

The aim of this event was to raise the levels of active participation in civil society through the strengthening and formation of local and international partnerships and networks, around the themes of corporate social responsibility, networking, fund raising and volunteering. The event took place on 3-5 May 2007 in the Ledra Palace area and included a variety of activities and functions ranging from seminars, workshops, entertainment programme with live bands and an exhibition; including the set-up of stands representing more than 70 local and international Civil Society Organizations.

EUROMED Gender Connection Network

On behalf of MIGS, Georgina Christou participated in a workshop organised by the Italian non-profit association CE.S.I.E Onlus – Center of Studies and European Initiatives based in Palermo – Sicily and funded by the Anna Lindh Foundation for Dialogue between Cultures.

The aim of this workshop was to set the basis for the creation of a network combining various organisations across Europe and the Mediterranean which deal with gender, youth and cultural issues. The workshop was conducted in Palermo during the 22nd-28th of April 2007 and included countries such as Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Greece, Cyprus, Portugal, Turkey, Estonia and Italy. The aim of the network was defined during the workshop will be to increase gender equality in the Euro-Med region and coordinate and help the participating organisations in identifying common areas of concern in order to develop various projects on these issues.

Cyprus in Violation of CEDAW Convention on the Issue of Children of Displaced Women

In a statement issued by MIGS, the Institute welcomed the efforts of the Committee for Refugees of the Cyprus Parliament and the Minister of Interior Neoclis Silikiotis to take measures to reduce the discrimination suffered by the children of displaced women, maintaining however that the recommended measures fall short of eliminating this discrimination.

£20, 000 for the Third Child; Long Term Solution or Short Sighted Fix?

The Mediterranean Institute of Gender Studies issued a statement maintaining that the governmental proposal to give Cypriots £20,000 (around 35,000 Euro) for a third child represents a short-sighted, highly problematic solution which fails to provide a long-term, comprehensive, and sustainable vision of how to best address the serious implications of the demographic issue.

MIGS's statement on this issue attracted a lot of media attention. To view an extensive newspaper article detailing all the issues mentioned in the MIGS

Women Writers: Fiction, Voice and Identity

MIGS recognises the impact of women writers in Literature in terms of understanding the multilayered levels of discrimination against women. Women writers have been traditionally excluded from the literary canon. Their voices, now heard, are a testament to change. Every 6 months our newsletter introduces women writers from diverse backgrounds that have dealt in revolutionary ways with a variety of themes relating to gender.

"The silence depressed me. It wasn't the silence of silence. It was my own silence."

Sylvia Plath, The Bell Jar

"Write what should not be forgotten."

Isabel Allende

Words

Sylvia Plath

*Axes,
After whose stroke the wood rings,
And the echoes!
Echoes travelling
Off from the centre like horses.*

Wells like tears, like the Water striving
To re-establish its mirror
Over the rock.*

*That drops and turns,
A white skull,
Eaten by weedy greens,
Years later I
Encounter them on the road-*

*Words dry and riderless,
The indefatigable hoof-taps.
While
From the bottom of the pool, fixed stars
Govern a life.*

Publications to Delight In

- o Fadumo Korn, Born in the Big Rains (2006)
- o Kate Chopin, The Awakening (1899)
- o Maxine Hong Kingston, The Woman Warrior (1976)
- o Ali Smith, The Accidental (2004)

WHY WE LOVE 'EM!

Useful information on these writer's works:

In her memoir Born in the Big Rains, international activist Fadumo Korn illustrates her devastating transformation, recovery and empowerment after undergoing violent genital mutilation at the age of seven in Somalia, her native land. The novel has been characterised by reviews as "brutally honest, politically sensitive, and [a] bold addition to literature on global women's health."

Kate Chopin's bold subject matter on its own renders her a forerunner of 20th century feminist writers. Her work contains universal themes related to all women at all times. Her second novel The Awakening which describes a dissatisfied wife who explores her sexuality, was harshly criticised on the grounds of immoral standards when it was published in 1899. Her short stories reflect on similar themes. Two recommendations are: The Story of an Hour, and The Storm.

Maxine Hong Kingston is a Chinese American writer whose writing, a blend of fiction and non-fiction, often reflects her cultural heritage and carries themes which invert historical misogynistic practices such as foot-binding. The Woman Warrior is exceptional in the transgression of gender roles it portrays, as its protagonist is simultaneously both a tender mother and a feared warrior.

Ali Smith could certainly be described as a feminist writer who challenges literary forms and content in innovative ways. The Accidental, winner of the 2005 Whitbread Novel of the Year, shows the protagonist of the novel as both a mystery woman and a flesh and blood ordinary girl who interrupts and alters in various ways, the life of a family. She lives through the ages and breaks the boundaries between present and past, male and female roles: Hello. I am Alhambra, named for the place of my conception. Believe me. Everything is meant. From my mother: grace under pressure, the uses of mystery; how to get what I want. From my father: how to disappear, how not to exist.
